In Pictures: 12 Brand New Cities

Dholera, India

Located in the northwest part of India in Gujarat, Dholera is a new project on what is now largely rural land, and it will be part of a global manufacturing and trading hub. Dholera is also the first city in a series of cities across a larger project, the Delhi-Mumbai Industrial Corridor (DMIC), a 93-mile stretch down the west coast of the subcontinent. With the DMIC, the Indian government aims to double the number of jobs in the region and quadruple its exports within just five years.
